

QYHC Paper Young People and the One Social Housing System
Section 2: YHTS
Appendix 1: Comparison of Program objectives

Objectives	1992 Youth Headlease Transfer Guidelines	2000 Same House Different Landlord Guidelines	2003 Same House Different Landlord Draft Guidelines	2009 Same House Different Landlord Guidelines (based on internet information only)
	To headlease Queensland Department of Housing and Local government properties to community youth housing organisations which are able to support young people until appropriate longer term independent housing arrangements can be obtained.	To provide opportunities for previously homeless young people to access secure affordable housing, including public housing.	To enable young crisis and transitional accommodation tenants to enter public housing without physically relocating to another dwelling.	To enable young crisis and transitional accommodation tenants to enter public housing without physically relocating to another dwelling.
	To provide an opportunity for previously homeless young people who wish to attain more secure housing to gain initial support under the sub-letting arrangements.	To facilitate the transition of young people from supported to independent accommodation, including more successful public housing tenancies.	To facilitate the establishment of more successful public housing tenancies for those clients who enter public housing through the Same House Different Landlord Program.	To facilitate the establishment of more successful public housing tenancies for those clients who enter public housing through the Same House Different Landlord Program.
	To provide an opportunity for previously homeless young people to transfer to a more appropriate form of housing including direct tenancies with the Department, when they are prepared for independent living.	To enable young crisis and transitional accommodation tenants to enter public housing without physically relocating to another dwelling.	To provide differing locations for crisis and transitional accommodation and to ensure that crisis and transitional housing does not impact negatively on neighbourhoods.	To provide differing locations for crisis and transitional accommodation and to ensure that crisis and transitional housing does not impact negatively on neighbourhoods.
		To increase the capacity of the Departments housing programs to respond to the needs of young people.	To identify opportunities and means for more flexible uses of Department of Housing properties.	To identify opportunities and means for more flexible uses of Department of Housing properties.
			To ensure property management standards for the SHDL properties are consistent with those of public housing properties.	To ensure property management standards for the SHDL properties are consistent with those of public housing properties.